Dear Sir:

Your favor received and I am herewith sending you a money order for $1.60 to pay for the notes of the Lumberman's Bank. These were not in quite as good condition as we were expecting. The other note with an advertisement of the Fall River line has really no value but I am including ten cents more. The note itself is, as you probably know, just a copy.

The token of which you send a rubbing is known as an identification badge. In the World War the government supplied these made of aluminum; in the Civil War any soldier that wished could buy them at the Settlers' Stores or in the big cities and have his name stamped on them. The blank ones sell for possibly ten to twenty-five cents and those stamped a little more. We are not interested in the piece.

Very truly yours,

HW:JG
